From Saturday, JANUARY 22, to Saturday, JANUARY 29, 1737.

EDINBURG, Sept. 22.

SATURDAY laſt died here Jean Aire, Spouſe of Alexander Herdman, Vintner, and on Sunday laſt was interred: On Monday Sarah Stark (an old Acquaintance of Mr. Herdman's) came to ſolace him in his Affliction, and was e'en ſo kind as condeſcend to put up with him all Night; which taking Air, the Garriſon was attacked in form early next Morning by a vaſt Mob; the Kirk-Treaſurer came alſo to put in his Claim, and the Creditors, to ſecure their Property. In this ſad Caſe ſtood poor Herdman for ſome Time, arguing (from within to the Crowd) That he was actually married to his beloved Sally, That he who marries does well, That he who knew no Law, nor any Impediment, why he might not take a Girl with the one Hand, the Moment he drops his Wife into the Grave with the other, if 'twas not the Whim of Decency; and finally, That neither his Circumſtances nor Inclinations, could admit of any long Widowhood. But how far his Rhetorick was reaſonable, could not well be diſcuſſed there: They were both carried to the Council Chamber, and after Examination, Madame was ſent to the Guard; and the intended Bridegroom ordered to find Bail: But he ſtrenouſly inſiſting, That they were at leaſt virtually and intentionally wedded, and that, if there was any Formality ſtill requiſite, he and ſhe were moſt willing that their Honours (qua Juſtices) ſhould ſupply what ſeemed wanting to make them Spouſes: The Magiſtrates, after ſeriouſly weighing the Caſe, and to prevent Inconveniencies, thought proper to cauſe Miſs to be again brought before them; and upon hearing them mutually, ſeriouſly, and ſolemnly emit their Inclinations, Declared them married Perſons. Making each a Bow, they returned to their Habitations hand in hand, accompanied by a vaſt Retinue, tho' not of the moſt complaiſant Part of Mankind. However, their Humour ſeems now pretty much ſubſided: A Wonder laſts but nine Nights——— and their Creditors have ſuperſeded Diligence, in Hopes this Marriage may, after all, become productive of Plenty. A croſs Beginning has often proved the Mother of Felicity.

LONDON, Oct. 5.

We hear that a Member of Parliament was ſtopt on Wednesday laſt, coming over Turnham Green, by a ſingle Highwayman, who deſired him not to be frightened, or any ways ſurprized, but informed him that he was of the Branch of Diſtillers, and being deprived of that way of Support, he was entitled, by an Act of Parliament, to follow any other Calling to maintain himſelf and Family, and therefore told the Gentleman he wanted his Money, which he muſt not refuſe him; and accordingly the Gentleman ſurrendered his Money to the new Trader, who returned him Thanks, and rode off immediately.

The next Day a Perſon was ſtopt upon Finchley Common by two Highwaymen; but immediately telling them he was a Diſtiller, they pitied him, gave him the Watch-Word, and wiſh'd him a good Journey.

Oct. 7. They write from Petersburg, that it had been ſtrongly reported there for ſome time, that Feldt-Marſhal Munich had abandoned the Crimea, but the Court did not however think fit to declare the ſame till very lately, when they own'd that that General was arrived with his Army on the Banks of Dneiper, whither he had thought neceſſary to move, in order to obſerve the Motions of the Turks, and to oppoſe any Attempt they might make to invade the Ruſſian Territories. The Conjectures made there upon the preſent Situation of the Muſcovite Affairs, and Count Munich's having actually abandoned the Crimea, are, that in all Likelihood the Czarina has at preſent laid aſide all hopes of conquering that Country, finding much more Difficulty in the Undertaking than was at firſt apprehended, and that the Ruſſians have certainly loſt a much greater Number of Men in their late Expeditions than has been given out.

We hear that Brigadier Tyrrell, Governor of Pendennis, is appointed Governor of South Carolina, in the room of Robert Johnſon Eſq; deceaſed

Oct. 12. The Great Turk ſtill continues to delay giving his Anſwer to the Propoſals offered to him by the Mediating Powers, for putting an End to the War with Ruſſia, but has made a new Declaration to the Court of Vienna, 'That he never refuſed to uſe his utmoſt Efforts to oblige 'the Tartars to give Satisfaction to Ruſſia for the Inſults 'they have committed on her Territories; that he ought 'not to be blam'd becauſe they have not yet done it, ſince 'they are univerſally known to be a headſtrong obſtinate 'People; and that the Reaſons which the Ruſſians have 'to be diſpleaſed with them ought not to prevent an 'Accommodation between him and the Czarina: That 'he hopes the Emperor will continue his Endeavours to 'effect it, ſince he, for his Part, deſires to entertain a 'good Underſtanding with him, and hopes he has given a 'ſenſible Proof of it, in not having made uſe of thoſe 'Advantages, which he might have taken from the repeated Offers made him by the Rebels of Hungary and 'Croatia.'

'Tis certain his Imperial Majeſty, preſs'd by her Czarian Majeſty on the one hand, and the Maritime Powers on the other, is under great Difficulties to determine whether he ſhall break with the Turks or not. France has declar'd ſhe will not interfere either one way or the other; ſhe cares not to diſpleaſe the Czarina by declaring for the Turk, or to loſe the Turk by ſiding with the Ruſſians, France therefore waits the Event of Things; if a Peace is brought on, ſhe has her Merits to plead to both Parties; if the Emperor engages in the War, will not her Policy watch the Moment to purſue her Natural Intereſts?

The Grand Vizier, with his Army, has not been wholly idle; he ſent out a Detachment of 10000 Men to make an Invaſion into the Ukrania, and they returned with conſiderable Plunder, and a great Number of Priſoners. All further Operations are, however, believed impoſſible for this Seaſon; and Count Munich is accordingly, by this time, arrived at the Court of Petersburg from his Army, to repoſt the Condition thereof to her Czarian Majeſty.
